

Some might say
their first cancer
screening was
as easy as...

Screening saves lives. Just ask a survivor.

During their lifetime, one-half of all men and one-third of all women in the U.S. will develop cancer in some form.* So talk to your doctor about how often you should be screened for breast, cervical, prostate or colorectal cancer. Regular screening often takes little more than 30 minutes—and sometimes even less than 5. And early detection saves lives. That's time well spent.
